HONG KONG, DECEMBER 12,

COMMUNISM IN CHINA

So much capital has been, and is being made, out of the allegedly communistic leanings of the Chinese Government and people that it is important to examine this matter in order to clear up the situation to those who may have been impressed and misled by such falsehoods. Persistent efforts have been made by Japan's apologists to represent the Kuomintang and the Comintern as being alike, and the complete destruction of the Chinese political party has been declared to be among Japan's present war aims.

It will be shown that the Kuomintang is as free from Communistic influence as the Nazi party, the Fascists, and the Japanese Government itself. Prince Konoye, the Japanese Premier, recently stated that it is a moral mission imposed upon Japan by her political structure and national policy "to prevent and suppress the evils of Communism." Japanese diplomats and business men, political leaders and journalists, pointed out that the wrong tactics had been adopted in relations with China, and that Japanese militarists were provoking hostility among the Chinese. Before taking office, Prince Konoye recognised that the so-called "dual diplomacy" by Japan's soldiers and diplomats, instead of improving relationships, was having a very detrimental effect; now that he is Premier he discreetly forgets the part his countrymen played in creating bad feeling and pretends it was the "machinations" of the Comintern which led to the disastrous clash that has brought death and destruction to a nation struggling for rejuvenation.

If a serious danger to a nation's peace and security is apprehended, it is the duty of any Government to adopt such safeguards as appear necessary. This is precisely what was done by China when it was recognised, in 1927, that the Communists in the Republic were actively engaged in working against the national Government, whereupon they were expelled from the Kuomintang and the whole movement put under nation-wide proscription—us, of course, Japan as well aware. General Chiang Kai-shek—who of all men in the world should have known exactly how grave the Communist "menace" was, seeing that he was engaged in suppressing their activities—in November last year declared that the dispersal of the surviving remnants in the North-West of the Communist forces was exclusively a domestic affair, and would never be affected by outside influences or international politics.

On August 21, 1937, while Japanese troops were fighting in "self-defence" in North China—a treaty of Non-Aggression was concluded between China and Soviet Russia. The provisions of this agreement consisted merely of mutual assurance of non-aggression and non-assistance to any aggressor who might attack either signatory. Vigorous attempts were made to represent this pact as affording new proof of secret understanding between the Kuomintang (as represented by the Chinese Government) and the Comintern (as represented by the Soviet Union). The fact was forgotten that Soviet Russia already had various agreements with other countries, none of which are favourably inclined towards Communism. Is not Japan's attitude in dividing China into small autonomous puppet states breeding the very incubus which will produce the empty rice bowl—and Communism?

JUSTIFIED IN FIRING

Nairobi, Dec. 12.

The King's African Rifles were justified in firing during the riot at Isolo, according to the finding of a Ministerial Inquiry which states that but for the firing the loss of life and damage might have been greater.—Reuter

MORALE HIGH

Hankow, Dec. 12.

How long the Chinese will be able to withstand the Japanese attack is difficult to estimate. The morale of the Chinese forces is high, said General Tang Sheng-chih, who adds that in the event of Japanese troops entering Nanking the Chinese will find themselves in a better position to offer resistance because the further the Japanese advance the more difficulties they will encounter.—Reuter

CROSS-COUNTRY RACE

London, Dec. 12.

In the inter-varsity cross country race over seven miles, Cambridge beat Oxford by 54 points to 44.

E. C. Weir, the Cambridge captain, was first home, his time being 43 minutes 13 seconds. Snow generally interfered with sport, causing the postponement of several football and Rugby matches.—Reuter

Italy Deserts League

MUSSOLINI MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT

ROME, DECEMBER 12.

SIGNOR MUSSOLINI HAS ANNOUNCED THAT ITALY IS LEAVING THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

The announcement was made from the balcony of the Palazzo Venezia to a cheering crowd of one hundred thousand. The Duce said he was making an important announcement for the history of "our Italy and our revolution." The good intentions of a certain government were drowned soon as their delegates enter into contact with the fatal surroundings of the Sanhedrin of Geneva which was manoeuvred by hidden and shady sources, prejudicial to Italy.

In these conditions our presence at the door of Geneva is no longer tolerable. Our doctrine, and the style and temperament of our soldiers have perished. The hour has approached when it is necessary to make a choice. Are we to remain inside the League?

There were shouts of "no." Are we to go out? shouts of "yes."

NO PRESSURE

The Duce said: We are moving forward and away without regret from a tottering temple where men do not work for peace but for war. He emphatically denied that any pressure was put on Italy to determine their attitude. Our comrades of the axis Berlin-Tokyo have shown absolute discretion. This is the truth.

The withdrawal of Italy from the League of Nations is an event of great historical importance which has drawn to attention of the world and whose consequences cannot yet be foreseen. It is not for this that we shall abandon our fundamental line of policy which aims at collaboration and peace.

PROUD BOAST

The Duce said that during the last few days "we offered luminous proof by creating peace in the Adriatic (apparently referring to the Italo-Yugoslav understanding) and the threatening voices which have been raised from time to time, and will perhaps be again raised from the flocks of great democracies leave us perfectly indifferent. They can do nothing against a people like the Italians who are capable of any sacrifice. "We have the arms of sky, land and sea, numerous and tempered by two victorious wars, but above all we have the heroic spirit of revolution which no force in the world will ever be able to bend."—Reuter

THE RESIGNATION

Rome, Dec. 12.

Count Ciano sent a telegram to the Secretary-General of the League as follows: "Following the decisions of the Grand Fascist Council, I have to inform you that as from December 11, 1937, Italy leaves the League of Nations."—Reuter

STRONG CHINESE RESISTANCE OF NANKING SURPRISES JAPANESE

ARMY SPOKESMAN ADMITS GREAT DIFFICULTY OF UNDERTAKING

ALL-NIGHT ATTACK FAILS TO BREAK DOWN STUBBORN DEFENCES

SHANGHAI, DECEMBER 12.

IT IS SEMI-OFFICIALLY REPORTED THAT SOME JAPANESE TROOPS CROSSED THE YANGTSE AT A POINT BETWEEN NANKING AND WUHU AND ARE NOW ADVANCING TO FUKOW. THE SUCCESS OF SUCH AN OPERATION WILL COMPLETELY ISOLATE THE CHINESE FORCES IN NANKING.

ALTHOUGH JAPAN IS CELEBRATING THE SUCCESS OF HER TROOPS, NANKING CITY IS FAR FROM FALLEN. A JAPANESE ARMY SPOKESMAN ADMITTED THAT THE CAPTURE OF THE CITY IS BY NO MEANS AN EASY TASK AND SAID IT IS ENCLOSED BY A WALL FIFTY FEET HIGH AND THIRTY-THREE FEET WIDE, AND ENCLOSED BY A DEEP MOAT SIXTY-SIX FEET WIDE.

Tokyo: It is considered here that the triumphal Japanese entry into Nanking has been postponed from Sunday, possibly to Monday. Lull in the news from Nanking is presumed to indicate that the Japanese attack is progressing slowly. Japanese troops operating south of Nanking are reported to be advancing rapidly on Fukow in order to cut off the last avenue of retreat from the capital. These troops are stated to have crossed the Yangtse under cover of darkness last night.

After all night machine-gun and artillery duels, the Japanese forces besieging Nanking, launched a fresh attack at daybreak in an attempt to smash the Chinese resistance, whose unexpectedly strong stand is making the Japanese task much more difficult and costly than anticipated. Reinforcements from points east of Nanking are being rushed to support the attackers.

A Japanese army spokesman admitted that the Chinese were putting up a bitter resistance. According to Japanese reports the troops who were reported to have crossed the Yangtse yesterday at a point between Nanking and Wuhu are making good progress in their attempt to reach Fukow. Success this morning would isolate the Chinese defenders in Nanking and expose them to attack from the rear.—Reuter

STOP PRESS

Tokyo, Dec. 12.

Despite the victories of the Japanese troops in the Nanking area and the fact that the capture of the Chinese capital forms the major objective, it is "still premature" for the nation to conclude that the Sino-Japanese conflict has reached the final stage, the Japanese army authorities declare. They voiced the hope that the nation would not be "too much elated" over the victories in the Nanking direction.

Attention is drawn to the fact in Japan that the realisation of whole-hearted co-operation with the Chinese is one of her paramount desires—this will depend on the future strenuous efforts of the Japanese nation.

The military authorities expressed the desire that the people would honour the souls of the war dead now enshrined in the Yasukuni Shrine and comfort the sick and wounded rather than indulge in celebrations.—Reuter

Ningpo, Dec. 12.

Japanese air raids have driven the people from the city into the neighbouring rural district. Chinese sources declare. A general exodus from Ningpo began last month when Japanese aircraft made frequent raids on Chekiang. The commercial district of Ningpo, near the East Gate is practically deserted as most people have gone to the countryside and only a few shops remain open.—Reuter

Hankow, Dec. 12.

FRANCO-RUMANIAN RELATIONS

Bucharest, Dec. 12.

The visit of M. Delbos to Rumania ended to-day when he departed for Yugoslavia. The visit is said to have strengthened Franco-Rumanian relations including the permanent co-operation between the General Staffs of the two countries and supplies of the latest type of war materials to Rumania by France. It is understood that Rumania is definitely opposing a revision of treaties.—Reuter

AMERICAN DIES IN STREET

The foreigner who collapsed in Woosung Street, Yau-mat, about 9 p.m. last night and died shortly after admission to hospital has now been identified as Martin Lee Stephenson, an American, aged 63 years. He had resided at No. 27 Hillwood Road, Kowloon.

An Indian constable saw the man lying on the side of the road where he had apparently just collapsed. The man murmured: "I am sick." The constable took him in a rickshaw to the police station. Unfortunately he was soon beyond aid.

AMBITIOUS JAPANESE LEADERS

Tokyo, Dec. 11.

Hitherto the scope of Japan's economic plans on the Asiatic continent have been confined to North China, but "due to the fall of Nanking," the views of leading financiers, business-men and industrialists have undergone a sweeping change.

They are now apparently inclined to believe that plans must be drawn up covering the whole of North, Central and South China, declares the semi-official "Japan Times."

The journal adds that Japanese business leaders are seriously thinking out plans for reconstruction of Chinese currency, transportation, communications, aviation and navigation systems, which

FRENCH AIR ESTIMATES

BIG INCREASE: SEVERE CRITICISM

Paris, December 12.

The 1938 Air estimates approximating £10,000,000 passed the Chamber by 523 votes to 1. This represents an increase of £5,500,000 as compared with 1937.

The debate was marked by severe criticism of the French air force, the critics urging higher expenditure and faster production, and declared that foreign bombers and pursuit planes were sixty miles an hour faster than the French machines.

The Air Minister, M. Pierre Cot, replied that France had bombers and pursuits capable of 300 m.p.h. which were faster than any British or German planes. He pointed out that the British Air Ministry had disposed sums three times higher than the French. The Deputy alleged that between July 1936 and August 1937, France had sent 540 aeroplanes to Spain while Russia sent 437 and Holland 110.—Reuter

IN BRITISH WATERS?

Japanese Take Customs Boat

The alleged penetration into Hong Kong waters of a Japanese destroyer of No. 23 flotilla in the course of an attack on a Chinese Maritime Customs cruiser just outside the territorial waters of the Colony on Saturday, is occupying the attention of the naval authorities.

According to information to hand the cruiser Cha Hsing, which was commanded by Captain G. Cook, was fired on somewhere in the vicinity of Black Point, which is about two miles outside local waters. Captain Cook sought the safety of the Colony and beached his vessel at Yung Lung Wan, in Deep Water Bay, about two miles from Castle Peak in the New Territories. It is alleged that two shots fired in the course of the chase landed in British territory, and two 4.7 shells, unexploded, were later found by the police on the beach, definitely in British territory.

The crew of the cruiser, having beached their craft, walked towards Lung Ku-tan and, as the cruiser was later sighted outside British waters proceeding under her own steam, it is believed that the Japanese must have sent men in motor-boats to the beach, thereby entering the waters of the Colony, refloated her and sailed her off.

GERMANS IN
POLANDNew Minority
Agreement

BY W. L.

Since German history has always been intimately connected with the history of Poland (partition of Poland under Frederick the Great, Saxony's King, also King of Poland etc.), it is not astonishing that standing expressions connected with Poland should have entered into German mentality. One of these standing expressions was the sentence, "that is truly Polish fashion," indicating a state of disorderliness.

When, therefore, in 1934 the German Government and the Government of Marshal Pilsudski entered into an agreement regulating the question of German minorities in Germany, and declaring that two Governments pledged themselves to refrain from using force to settle any possible differences of opinion, the world at large sighed with relief. Had there not always been the question of Danzig, where Poland sought to gain controlling influence, and the territory of Silesia, which was cut from the Reich as a result of the Treaty of Versailles? European Chancelleries had been continually on the alert, watching the German-Polish frontier, the Polish Corridor, as one of the most dangerous points on the map of Europe.

But all was not as well as it seemed. Marshal Pilsudski died, and with him one of the firm believers in a Polish-German understanding. It seemed as though his successors would again sacrifice the understanding with Germany for a closer co-operation with France, the country that had, until 1933, been the great friend of Poland.

ANXIOUS PROBLEM

The political re-modelling of the Free State of Danzig put a severe test on Polish statesmanship, and it often looked as though the world would see "trouble in the Baltic."

Many minor and major instances during the last few years have again made European statesmen watch the "Corridor" anxiously, and of late it had seemed as though after all, there could be no lasting peace in that part of the world.

And then, suddenly, amidst a war in Spain, quarrel over Non-Intervention, a grave crisis in the Far East, unrest all over the world, there came news from Berlin and Warsaw that the question of minorities in these two states had been settled!

The two Governments came together, and decided that the development in Danzig should not form misunderstanding between them. They agreed that the minorities in each country would not be assimilated by force, as the "mutual respect of the two countries for one another made this impossible."

TOLERANCE

The minorities were assured the right to use their own language freely, in private and business life as well as in the press and at public gatherings, and they were assured that no inconvenience would be forced upon them because of this. Minorities were permitted to associate, in private as well as in cultural and economic spheres. They were furthermore allowed to erect and maintain schools where their languages would be taught, and their religious practice in the mother-tongue was specifically permitted. They were free to live according to their principles and to maintain and develop their own charity organizations.

With this spontaneous agreement between the two states, Europe can once again concentrate its attention upon other matters. Danzig and the "Corridor" can be dismissed from the minds of troubled statesmen, and in the interest of world peace the responsible leaders of Germany and Poland must be lauded for their timely and prudent action.

NON-RECOGNITION PUT
TO THE TESTLegal Fiction Exploded By Fascist States

SELF-INTEREST OF NATIONS

BY SIM KHIN LIN

After many months of tense expectation and heated discussion, the only tangible fruits of the Sino-Japanese controversy in the League of Nations were the Lytton Report, which condemned the aggression of Japan, and the adoption of a resolution by the Assembly that it was "incumbent upon the Members of the League of Nations not to recognize any situation, treaty or agreement which may be brought about by means contrary to the Covenant of the League of Nations or to the Pact of Paris." As a result, the non-recognition of "Manchukuo" was adopted by non-member states and all member-states, except the small state of Salvador and Japan.

However poor consolation this was to China when compared to her tremendous sacrifice of life and the loss of Manchuria, the non-recognition of "Manchukuo" was a moral sanction against Japan which did not merely remain a verbal condemnation. By it the legal fiction was recognized and actually put into practice by the various Governments of the world that, for all international relations, the puppet Government of "Manchukuo" did not exist legally or in fact.

Although non-recognition of "Manchukuo" was all that the self-interest of nations permitted to be done, it expressed the determination of nations to discourage resort to armed force in international relations, and to uphold the solemn obligations of the League Covenant and the Peace Pact of Paris. As such it was a warning to lawless nations who persisted in following a grab-and-take policy in international relations. The non-recognition was therefore an unpleasant thorn in the side of aggressor nations.

ILLICIT FLUNDER

Unfortunately, pricking is all that non-recognition can do, for non-recognition comes in only when the aggressor is in possession of his illicit plunder. At the same time, it is also a confession of inability to deal with a situation created by force, since non-recognition itself implies recognition that solemn obligations have been violated by an existing situation. Seen in this light it may even be said to encourage nations who see in force the key to national expansion.

This inability is further exposed by the recent de jure recognition of "Manchukuo" by Italy. The non-recognition of "Manchukuo" was in fact the recognition of a situation, though this was not admitted by a legal fiction. Unluckily for peace-loving nations, dictators see through fiction; but will not stop to play at fiction. The recognition of "Manchukuo" by Italy has torn the veil from the doctrine of non-recognition, and exposed it nakedly as another sanction of international law at the mercy of cold force.

How much longer nations will continue to play at sanctions without being wholeheartedly willing to make national efforts and sacrifices is a question of the future. The immediate problem is that nations to-day dare not, or simply refuse to, face issues which confront them in the present.

A WARNING

When the Anti-Comintern Pact was signed by Germany, Italy, and Japan, it was also, besides its expressed intentions, a diplomatic warning to the world of the close relationship of nations who were determined to use force to open the way for national aspirations. When they shook hands and conferred, the world armed in expectancy, and when they acted, the world hastily continued to arm, and expostulated by appealing to the principles of international law, but reserved the use of arms only for their own nation. The Non-Intervention Committee sits interminably amidst the mockery of armed intervention by its members. The only concrete result of League arbitration in the Sino-Japanese dispute is the negative doctrine of non-recognition. When Japan again resorts to armed force in China, the League shrinks responsibility by shifting it to the Brussels Nine-Power Treaty Conference. The Conference expostulates, and lectures to Japan on the necessity of closely observing the just principles of international law; and so the drama of nations moves slowly but inevitably to its close.

PAT ON THE BACK

Italy pats Papan on the back by recognizing "Manchukuo," and thereby violates her obligations as a member of the League of Nations. Japan then pats back by recognizing General Franco's rebel government. With these gestures, they again show that they are closer in relationship, and at the same time give to the world at large a significant warning. The rest of the world take the warning, but, paralysed by conflicting self-interests, watch helplessly the spectre of force which haunts the relations of nations, which daily becomes stronger and bolder because of the shrinking back of nations.

The flouting of the doctrine of non-recognition by the Italian recognition of "Manchukuo" reveals the helplessness of naked principle. The non-recognition of "Manchukuo" will remain a new doctrine of international law so long as it remains a moral obligation. Principles of international law will remain mere academic principles unless sanctioned by the coercive force of nations. Without being backed by the collective force of member-states, the League will remain what it is—a repository of poignant hopes ignored and bullied by lawless force.

BLOOD BAPTISM

How easily we forget the costly lessons of history. We forget the blood that was shed for the principles of Christianity; for the rights of democracy; for the principle of nationalism; and we now expect the principles of international peace and security to triumph by their own inherent rightness.

National organizations have been established and maintained by the determination and sacrifice of individuals. The doctrines of the Christian Church, Fascism, and Communism were baptised with blood. Have we any reason to expect that an international organization for upholding world-peace and security will maintain itself without the sacrifice of the blood and energy of nations? Until this question is fearlessly faced, and answered by the annihilation of national selfishness, nations desiring peace and security will continue to expostulate in vain at the mercy of force.

The regulations include looting, supplying of information to the enemy, spreading of propaganda for the enemy and interfering with communications. Meetings and parades without authorisation are also prohibited.—Reuter.

JAPANESE SENTRY

Shanghai, Dec. 11. Following an alleged shooting attack on a Japanese sentry, Japanese military police to-day instituted a house-to-house search in Nantao and the Nantao refugee zone, which has now been taken over by Japanese police.

According to a Japanese spokesman, patrolling is to be a permanent measure. The Japanese sentry was not hit and no arrests have yet been made. Japanese patrolling of the area does not mean Japanese taking over of the present work of the international refugee committee of feeding and housing refugees.—Reuter.

TOKYO PLANS CELEBRATIONS

Million Children To Take Part

Tokyo, Dec. 11. Mammoth celebrations are planned immediately after the occupation of Nanking.

A million school-children, Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, students, Y.M.C.A. members, Reservists' Associations, bankers' employees and members of the Stock Exchange in Tokyo will participate in general reviews, processions and lantern parades to the Imperial Palace.

The War and Navy Ministries, the Italian and German Embassies and shop fronts in all Japanese cities will be beflagged.

Enthusiasm has reached its highest pitch in Osaka, Kyoto and Kobe, where the citizens, more impatient than those of Tokyo, have already held big flag processions.

Flags and lanterns are enjoying a brisk sale.

FAMOUS HOTEL DESTROYED

Shanghai, Dec. 11. A message from Nanking states that the Bridge House Hotel was struck by a shell-to-day and set on fire and completely destroyed.

The hotel, which is situated near the terminus of the Shanghai-Nanking Railway, is one of the oldest in Nanking.

Many distinguished travellers had stayed at the hotel, the proprietress of which, an Englishwoman named Mrs. C. Sim, evacuated with other Britons on December 9.

It is believed that the Duke of Kent, then Prince George, stayed at the hotel when he visited Nanking while a naval officer on the China Station.

2 JAPANESE FLIERS KILLED DURING CANTON-HANKOW LINE RAID

Canton, Dec. 11: An official investigation completed to-night reveals that two Japanese airmen were shot and killed and another taken prisoner when their plane was shot down by Chinese anti-aircraft guns during an air raid this morning along the Canton-Hankow Railway in the vicinity of Yingtak, about 150 kilometres north of Canton.

It is learned that nine planes took part in the raid and in addition to the one machine-brought down another plane was seriously damaged by Chinese gunfire but managed to escape.

After attacking the Canton-Hankow line the planes turned south and rained a number of bombs on Tientongwa station on the Canton-Kowloon Railway as well as the village. Reports received here this evening state that scores of houses were razed to the ground while a number of civilians were killed and injured.

Four more planes appeared over both railways again later in the afternoon dropping bombs along a number of stations, including Nganchanau, Kuntien and Nam-kong. No details have been received on the second bombing.

Linfen, Dec. 11: A defection movement among disgruntled "Manchukuo" irregulars in Chahar and Suiyuan is reported on foot.

These irregular units are said to have long been dissatisfied with the way the Japanese military treat them. With the approach of winter they are left in dire need of food and warm clothing.

Instigated by Chinese volunteers, they are planning to surrender to the Chinese side.

JAPANESE AT CHIHSHIEN STRENGTHEN DEFENCE

Linfen, Dec. 11: In anticipation of an imminent attack from the Chinese troops which are moving northward from Pingyao the Japanese troops at Chihshien on the Tungpu Railway south of Taiyuan are strengthening their defence works, a military report reaching here to-day states.

Sandbags and barbed-wire barricades have been placed outside the city gates which have been closed as a precautionary measure.

The report adds that there are still about 1,000 Japanese troops in the vicinity of Yutze southeast of Taiyuan.

PREMIER TO MAKE STATEMENT AFTER OCCUPATION OF NANKING

Tokyo, Dec. 11. When the Japanese complete occupation of Nanking, the Premier, Prince Konoye, is expected to make a statement urging the people to "unite solidly in preparation for protracted hostilities."

The Premier will also draw popular attention to the "heavier responsibilities now devolving on the shoulders of Japan for establishment of peace in East Asia as the result of collapse of the Nanking Government, which has been reduced to the status of a mere local administration."

The Japanese newspapers state that hostilities will go on with the fall of Nanking.

The "Kokumin Shimbun" says that the fall of Nanking will mean "collapse of the Nanking administration but will impose heavier responsibilities on Japan in connection with protracted hostilities."

The "Yomiuri Shimbun" says that Japan "cannot be satisfied with a patched-up peace or an inconclusive measure as long as the Kuomintang, whose abiding principle consists of antagonising and excluding Japan, remains in power, even if Mr. Wang Ching-wei replaces General Chiang Kai-shek."

The "Nichi-Nichi" congratulates the Japanese forces who have reached Nanking, "which has disturbed peace and order in the Far East for the past ten years as the base of anti-Japanese operations."

The journal, however, emphasises the necessity of following up the victory.

The "Hochi Shimbun" analyses the Chinese inclination for protracted hostilities, and expresses the opinion that this is due partly to Chinese expectation of British aid and partly to the growing pressure of the Communists.

The "Asahi Shimbun" states that the Japanese military achievement is worthy of celebration; but warns the people against intoxication over victory, pointing out that the situation stands at an important turning point.

NAVY WIN AGAIN

TRIANGULAR TOURNAMENT RUGBY SUCCESS

In a spectacular game on the Club ground on Saturday, the Royal Navy won the second match of the Triangular Rugby Tournament series to put themselves two up. The winners led by 11 clear points at the interval but the Club staged a fine rally in the second half and at one time more than held their own. The Navy came back, however, and the final tally was 22 points (two goals and four tries) to 13 points (two goals and a try).

Lt. Walsham, who played such a great game in the encounter against the Army, was again seen to advantage, and his clever handling brought rounds of applause. Lt. Colman, the regular full-back, was not available, but Surg.-Lt. Ellis filled the vacancy ably. For the losers, J. C. Miller, D. H. Stewart and K. A. Watson performed well. Teams:—

GALLANT DEFENCE OF THE CAPITAL

Chinese Make Fine Show Against Attackers

Nanking, Dec. 11.
Is it Nanking's destiny to become another Alcazar?
Foreign newspaper correspondents sticking grimly to their posts in China's capital were asking themselves this question to-night, after witnessing a day of hectic fighting in which the grim determination of the Chinese defenders had resulted in the smashing of the fury of the Japanese onslaughts at all points.

Magnificent is the only word to describe the Chinese stand-to-day. Their record was one of complete triumph, gained it is true at a heavy cost, under a storm of artillery fire and aerial bombing, but with the Japanese, too, suffering disastrous losses in desperate efforts to carry the Chinese machine-gun posts by storm.

Nowhere in the city had the Japanese secured any advantage despite wave upon wave of assaults. On the other hand, they were thrust back at strategic points from ground previously gained. Outstanding episode in a day marked by extreme heroism was the smashing of a violent Japanese attack at the south gate, in an action which was nothing less than a severe defeat for the Japanese.

TANKS CHARGE
This particular rush was led by four tanks, which crashed their way through the south gate shortly after ten o'clock.

In a few moments, the forces were locked in a death-grip which ended only when the four Japanese tanks had been disabled, their crews killed, and the survivors among the infantry were in full flight through the south gate.

Everywhere the same spirit of determination had manifested itself. There is no sign of retreat, or thought of retreat.

Sanguinary fighting is also continuing outside the city walls, where some 200,000 provincial troops are engaged in heroic attempts to break up the Japanese forces to a halt.

It was noted, however, that the provincial troops are slowly withdrawing men across to the Pukow side of the Yangtze, and it is thought likely that this process will be speeded up, leaving only the Central Government troops inside the walls to defend the capital.

SEVERE CLASHES

Hankow, Dec. 11.
According to Chinese despatches received to-day, severe fighting is raging at five of Nanking's city gates, where the Japanese, aided by aircraft, artillery and tanks, are severely pounding the Chinese defences in a determined effort to capture the city.

The heaviest engagement is going on outside Chungshua Men, or south gate, where the Chinese are said to be stubbornly holding on to forts on top of a small hill known as the Yu Hua Tai, which is nationally famous for its beautiful transparent coloured pebbles, hence the name, "Petals Rained from Heaven."

Three forts on top of the hill guard the entrance to the south gate.

Meanwhile, according to Chinese reports, Japanese troops have occupied Purple Mountain, where the Mausoleum of Sun Yat-sen is situated, and are attempting to storm the Chungshan and Taiping gates of the city.

The Chungshan Gate is on Nanking's famous Chungshan Road, which goes through the gate into the Sun Yat-sen Mausoleum Park and the Mausoleum.

The Taiping Gate is situated slightly north of the Chungshan Gate.

PURPLE MOUNTAIN CAPTURED
It was the place where the Manchurian Imperial army, under the command of Haeng Kuo-fang, finally captured Nanking after a siege lasting ten years, by dynamiting the city wall.

Japanese capture of Purple Mountain at this early stage has surprised Chinese circles, as the mountain was strongly fortified.

Occupation of the mountain gives the Japanese complete command of the city, since the mountain towers above the capital.

From the top the Japanese can direct gunfire on any part of the city.

RENEWED ATTACK

Shanghai, Dec. 11.
According to Japanese reports, Japanese forces launched a fresh offensive against Nanking at 10 o'clock this morning, supported by an intensive aerial and artillery bombardment.

Japanese columns, preceded by tanks, advanced from three directions against the walls, which at many points have been reduced to smoking masses of broken masonry.

The Chinese are offering stubborn resistance from strongly fortified positions in the city.

Japanese reports allege that gas shells were used by the Chinese last night before the Chinese counter-attack.

Meanwhile, foreign reports confirm Japanese occupation of Wuhu, on the Yangtze.

PRES. HOOVER HARD AGROUND

Passengers Safely Landed

Manila, Dec. 11.
Information has been received that the Dollar Line's President Hoover, with 650 passengers aboard, has grounded on a small island south of Formosa.

SALVAGE WORK

The mishap occurred sometime after midnight yesterday, the first message being received in Hong Kong at 12.22 a.m. This stated that the vessel was in no immediate danger, although it was realised then that assistance would be required if the vessel were to get off.

Several ships including the Prussen and the Empress of Asia answered the call for aid, and the Prussen stood by the Hoover for several hours. The Empress of Asia, after speeding towards Hoisho-To Island for several hours, is thought to have been informed of the safe landing of the passengers early yesterday afternoon and to have resumed her voyage to Kobe from Hong Kong.

A salvage tug, carrying workmen and divers, and Mr. T. B. Wilson, the Hong Kong manager of the Dollar Line, also left the Colony for Formosa last evening.

The President McKinley is now proceeding to the rescue of the passengers. She has on board a large number of workmen to assist in the jettisoning of the Hoover's cargo should it be found necessary.
